Alumni Relations Rules and Processes

1 Preamble

To align with its strategy, the university has revised and adopted the Alumni Relations (AR) Policy on 18 March 2021. These Alumni Relations and Processes derive from the policy content.

2 Purpose of the Alumni Relations Rules and Processes

The Alumni Rules and Processes should be read in line with the Alumni Relations Policy (ARP). The ARP aims at clarifying the various functions and responsibilities of the AR role players at the NWU with regard to managing a wide variety of alumni undertakings. It also provides a description of the elements of an integrated NWU Alumni Relations model and differentiates between the respective roles of the internal and external AR structures.

3 Scope of Application

These Alumni Relations Rules and Processes apply to the NWU, their graduates, the convocation and any structures that impact the relationship between the NWU alumni and their alma mater.

4 Definitions

4.1 Alumni

Alumni of the NWU are defined as a group of graduates and diplomates of the University or any of its predecessors.

Alumnus and Alumni will be used for both genders singular and plural.

4.2 NWU Convocation

The NWU Convocation refers to a statutory university body, established in terms of the Higher Education Act (101 of 1997) through which alumni of the institution enjoy representation on the NWU Council through a formal application process. This body comprises all eligible graduates, diplomates and permanent staff members of the University and its overall purpose is to foster a mutually-beneficial relationship between the parties, as well as to promote the general well-being of the University.

4.3 NWU Alumni Associations and its Chapters

The NWU Alumni Association (AA) is established by the Convocation and comprises of all graduates and diplomates of the University or its predecessors, with the overall objective of linking the alumni to their alma mater.

The AA establishes clusters of alumni – referred to as chapters – along commonly shared interests, such as in the professional, regional, historical, faculty/department, residential, sport, social or cultural spheres. Membership of a chapter is thus not geographically determined, and each cluster determines its own objectives as well as arranges its own activities in line with the overall purpose of the Convocation and the approved alumni chapter Alumni Relations Rules and Processes of the University.

4.3.1 The Alumni Campus Committee (ACC)

Members of the Alumni Campus Committee (ACC) are recommended by the Alumni Relations Practitioners and ratified by the Alumni Association Executive Committee. The aim of the ACC is to support and advise Alumni Relations Practitioners at the three campuses of the NWU. In addition, members of the ACC link the university with its alumni. The chairperson and deputy chairperson of the ACC serve on the Alumni Association Executive Committee.

4.4 NWU Internal Alumni Relations Structures

The University’s internal AR structures consist of:

- Director for Development and Fundraising
- Section Head: Alumni Relations
- Three Alumni Relations Practitioners servicing the three sites of delivery of the NWU

The Alumni Relations office based on the Potchefstroom campus is responsible for database management of both the Alumni and the Convocation including dissemination of communication to alumni and organisation of special projects such as the NWU Biennial Alumni Excellence Awards.

4.5 The NWU Alumni Relations Model

The NWU Relations model consists of five major elements:

- Alumni Awareness and Promotion: Creating awareness about the alumni office and its functions to current students. Generally referred to as alumni recruitment among current students. The process commences early in the welcoming of new students to the institution, thus fostering the notion of “young alumni”. The Alumni Relations office is also promoted during the different graduation ceremonies of the NWU.
- Activities and Events: This category includes activities such as the chapter events, final-year farewell functions, sports days, social gatherings, cultural events, regional events, reunions and homecoming events, career empowerment workshops, public and guest lectures aimed at supporting the NWU to achieve its dream and purpose.
- Alumni Communication: Alumni communication is facilitated through the dissemination of information through various channels such as online magazine, mobile text messages, emails and social media. The aim is to keep alumni informed about the developments taking place and opportunities available to alumni to contribute to the future of the NWU.
- Alumni Giving: There are various ways alumni can give to the NWU, including the following – providing financial support, giving their time to pre-determined causes, providing training, public lectures, mentorship programmes, Work-Integrated Learning and linking the NWU and students with opportunities.
- Alumni Recognition: Alumni are recognised for their personal and career achievements and contributions to society by means of the Biennial Alumni Excellence Awards ceremony. The award system consists of three types of awards:
  - Lifetime Achievement Award;
  - Alumni awards of Excellence (seven categories namely, Research, Education, Community Involvement, Business Leadership, Arts & Culture, Sport and Public Service);
  - Young Alumnus Award.

To maximise resources, the Alumni Relations offices continuously communicate with internal structures such as the faculties, support department and student structures to establish partnerships when organising different activities. Communication and partnerships between the different internal structures are encouraged for coordination purposes and for the Alumni Relations offices to provide support to the same structures.

5 Roles and Responsibilities

6 Related policies and other relevant documents

The Alumni Relations Rules and Processes must be read in conjunction with related policies, including but not limited to Brand, Communication and Behavioural policies.

7 Rules for establishing alumni interest groups

7.1 Purpose of Chapters

The establishment and effective functioning of alumni groups (chapters, reunions, etc) are particularly important in building relationships, facilitating communication and maintaining long-term loyalty among NWU alumni.

The typical goals of interest groups include the following:

- Supporting the purpose and dream of the University
- Acting as ambassadors for their alma mater
- Facilitation of networking and relationship-building with external stakeholders
- Recruiting alumni for the chapter
- Promoting the particular interests and activities of the group
- Facilitating fellowship/interaction among chapter members
- Providing the relevant data for updating alumni records in order to facilitate effective communication between the University and its alumni
- Providing feedback from alumni to the University
- Facilitation of alumni giving
- General promotion of the University and its numerous activities, also among potential future students
- Arranging chapter activities and conducting the necessary administration relevant thereto

It is understood that each chapter will determine its own specific objectives, related to its particular purpose, interest or reason for having been established, as well as the content of its own programmes or activities.

Chapter initiatives are to be undertaken in accordance with the alumni interest groups Alumni Relations Rules and Processes. In general, all alumni activities should remain aligned with the rules, regulations, policies and disciplinary codes of the University. Chapter goals or activities may thus not be in conflict with those of the NWU as an institution.

8 Criteria for establishment

Alumni of the NWU are entitled to convene a group of alumni with a view to formally establishing a recognised NWU chapter. Such initiation and organising are done on a voluntary basis. Recognition of an alumni interest group (chapter, reunions, etc) is granted to groups that meet the following criteria.

- The chapter/interest group must comprise a group of NWU alumni with a programme of ongoing activities
- The formation of the structure should have a specified intent/purpose, thus focussing on a particular target group, along with declared objectives
- Seven members are stipulated as a requirement for the establishment of a chapter
- The structure is required to register with the AR office
- Each chapter should organise an annual programme of events, which should include at least one activity per annum
- Each chapter does require a coordinating/management structure to plan, organise, coordinate, manage and report on its activities
- Chapters are also required to enter into an agreement with the relevant AR office

Annexure B to these Alumni Relations Rules and Processes represents a template for the chapter agreement to be entered into between the chapter and the relevant AR office.

9 The process of establishing a Chapter and/or Interest Group

The following serves as a broad outline of the process to be followed in establishing a chapter/interest group.

- The first step is to identify interest among potential members by an initiator/coordinator
- The next step entails contacting the relevant AR office in order to consult, obtain guidance/support and to establish the procedure from here
- Next follows the registration of the chapter, which will provide formal recognition in the form of an agreement being signed between the chapter and the AR office
- The chapter then proceeds with the organising of a coordinating structure to coordinate/manage its activities
- The chapter facilitates communication with the alumni target group by means of the AR office contacting the potential members
- The chapter proceeds with arranging its planned events
- The structure obtains the required/relevant support from the AR office
- Feedback is provided to the AR office after events and annually in the form of a short feedback report

10 Coordination and Chapter management structures

Each chapter is required to establish a Management Committee (MC). Such a coordinating committee typically consists of a Chairperson, Deputy Chair and Secretary. The roles and responsibilities of these office bearers are broadly defined as follows:

- The Chairperson: this leadership role entails the general coordination of the chapter and management of its activities, the chairing of meetings and oversight/good governance of the structure
- The Deputy Chairperson: acts as the direct support to the Chairperson and fulfils his/her role when the Chairperson is unable to do so or when the Chairperson asks the Deputy Chair to assist with implementing the chapter's programme
- The Secretary: this administrative role maintains the chapter's administrative records/files, records any financial matters/budgets and minutes the decisions taken at meetings
- Ex officio members: chapters are at liberty to invite a member of the relevant AR office to serve in an ex officio capacity on their MC, should they wish to obtain the input from such university representative

The relevant AR office should be informed of any changes in terms of the office bearers from time to time. A chapter MC meets at least twice per annum and a set of minutes relevant to these meetings should be kept on file.

11 Functioning and activity boundaries of Chapters

Each chapter determines its own programmes/activities and in so doing, is required to generate specific benefits for its members. In general, the functioning of these structures relates to the following activities:

- Planning, organising and implementing events, according to their own programme, including purely social gatherings

- Liaising with the relevant AR office for information, assistance/support and financial administration
- Communication with members based on contact data obtained from the AR office “in reverse order” (that is, by the AR office making contact with the target group and requesting interested parties to contact the MC of the chapter)
- Creation of institutional networks and arranging continuous professional development opportunities
- Submission of contributions for the publication of events in the AR communication channels
- Reporting back to the relevant AR office on the year’s activities

While the communication between the members of a chapter is considered to be an internal chapter matter (including activities such as the distribution of invitations, providing feedback to members, dissemination of short newsletters, etc), any formal communication on behalf of the University should be done in collaboration with the relevant AR office. Communication with members is furthermore to be branded correctly in accordance with the NWU Branding Policy and a template to be used for distributing written communication by chapters can be obtained from the AR offices.

In line with the NWU’s compliance with the Protection of Personal Information Act (POPIA), the contact details of alumni on the University’s central database are kept confidential. No lists or contact details relevant to alumni of the University will thus be supplied to chapters that wish to arrange an event without the approval of the target audience. The AR offices hence implement the “reverse order” contact approach, in which the AR office contacts the target audience and requests them to get in touch with the coordinator of the event, should they be interested.

Once a chapter has been established and the contact details of members are known to the group, the MC should ensure that such contact details are handled with care by the chapter and that no details are provided to any third parties without the explicit consent of the members involved.

It is furthermore vital for all chapters to ensure that their activities and the nature/style of their programmes do not cause any reputational risk or damage to the NWU. While the “informal” encouragement or recruitment of future students of the University is welcomed, chapters may not embark on any fundraising or sponsorship activities under the auspices of being an NWU structure that seeks to mobilise funding resources.

Alumni or a chapter that wish to raise funding to support the University should follow the correct procedure in this regard as stipulated by the Development & Fundraising Policy of the NWU.

12 Chapter membership fees and banking accounts

The notion of charging membership fees for belonging to a chapter is strongly discouraged and the practice of creating or building a reserve fund (for example, from profits made through organising events) is not allowed.

In addition, all banking/financial services are to be provided by the University AR offices and chapters should thus not open their own banking accounts.

13 Support form Alumni Relations Structures to chapters and reporting

AR offices situated at the various campuses of the University provide support and advisory services to their recognised chapters. Such assistance takes the form of:

- Helping interested volunteer/group to establish a chapter
- Providing advice and assistance with arrangements/ events management, as well as administrative support
- Communication and contacting of alumni (via the “reverse order” approach)
- Administration of funds/fees deposited by chapter members and/payable to suppliers/service providers on behalf of the chapter, provided that all deposits are clearly referenced and that all payments are based on the presentation of valid notices in line with the chapter’s budget, as agreed to between the AR office and the respective chapters

Chapters are expected to assist the AR offices with regard to the need for updating the contact information of alumni on the University’s central database, as well as to provide input or material for the purpose of publications of alumni events in the respective alumni communication channels of the University.

Chapters that specifically wish to arrange a reunion should consult with the relevant AR office well in advance of the event in order for them to obtain the required guidance and support in organising such an undertaking.

Chapters are also expected to report on their activities to the relevant AR offices, once an event has taken place. The purpose of such feedback is to keep track of all the NWU alumni undertakings, as well as to publicise the various alumni events in order to continuously grow the University’s network of stakeholders.

A template that facilitates such reporting is attached to these Alumni Relations Rules and Processes as Annexure C.

In addition, chapters are requested to submit a short annual report to the relevant AR office at the end of each year, summarising the activities of the group over the past year.

14 Conclusion

The interest groups Alumni Relations Rules and Processes aim at directing the various NWU alumni activities in a user-friendly manner in order to facilitate purposeful and efficient functioning, rather than attempting to enforce strict control mechanisms.
